

Wish List

Partner with DAKC to Open Doors...

Be a Champion for Systems Change

In ZeroStep, Transportation, and
Workforce Development!

Wish List

- ZeroStep

- open doors for us to talk with builders and architects
- include ZeroStep in your presentation every time you talk about sustainability
- tell your colleagues about ZeroStep if they are building a new house
- consult with ZeroStep when considering new construction for a commercial building

- Transportation

- talk to elected officials
- write a letter to the editor

Transportation is critical to create vibrant walking communities which are essential to keep talented young people working and living in Grand Rapids

- display yard signs for transportation advocacy
- participate www.rapidyes.org

Wish List

- Workforce Development

- share the business case with other employers to change perceptions
- open doors for DAKC to present or consult with employers
- attend or present at our employer conferences
- forward flier for employer conference to other employers
- give permission for us to video your employees with disabilities and share your success stories

- Generic to all DAKC

- provide connections for speaking engagements
- research for DAKC advocacy projects
- review and consult on business plans
- participate with fund development
- serve on Board committees
- provide website development
- teach Microsoft Office workshops
- donations of office furniture

Thank You

Evolving human systems and underlying assumptions into sustainable forms is by far the most complex challenge facing business and society.

Source: System Change : The Greatest Challenge and Opportunity Facing Business, Frank Dixon
The Corporate Social Responsibility Newswire